Hi Emily -

First, I want to say THANK YOU for the careful attention you are giving my ms. I believe that each edit I've made has really made a difference to the story -- and I'm a bit too close to the project to see these things for myself.

I've broken down the changes here for you by chapter and page number and followed all that we discussed except --- I don't see Anna as having been a "mean girl" before. Let me explain --

Anna does have demonic blood. But her demonic heritage is coming out now as her 17th birthday approaches and that makes her have darker impulses than she's had before and she's struggling with that. She'll struggle more as the story unfolds. In the direction I want to take with the story, the message really is about choice. Anna may be experiencing dark impulses but she has free wil and choice to determine the direction her path will take.

Will she stumble along the way? I hope so!

Does she enjoy watching Taylor and Amanda take a fall here and there? Absolutely!

In the beginning, she's coming out of following along with the direction Taylor has taken in her quest for popular girl status. I've worked a few sentences here and there to explain that Anna is awakening. Her eyes are now open. While she was never a "mean girl" she let the wannabes do things for her (you'll see what I mean below). She is now awakening to her own destiny and finding her choices of the past unpalatable to the person she's becoming. That's part of why there's a struggle between her and Taylor and Amanda. Anna is an alpha herself and she's just beginning to see that.

AND A SURPRISE UNVEILED -- Taylor and Amanda are both part Succubus demons Taylor is half and Amanda is 1/4. I had wanted to save this for the next book but I think it answers your questions that you've been having about why them, why now, did they suddenly change or were they always mean girls? Really, their demons are emerging as they reach their 17th birthdays too --- so they have some changes going on as well but their choices are different from Anna's.

So here we go with the changes. Let me know what you think -- and hopefully I'm getting closer!!! I am attaching different formats in case you can't read. Please let me know when we can chat.

Lynne

1. When Marcheline asks if Taylor and Amanda are bringing Anna home, bc it's a full moon day, Anna muses that Marcheline just LOVES Taylor and Amanda. They come from the "right" families, they dress nicely and do the "right" kinds of things, like cheerleading. Anna feels that Marcheline wants some of that "rightness" to rub off on her. But she doesn't understand why.
2. Anna notes that lately she feels Taylor is judging her and finds her lacking -- kind of the way she feels around her mother.

CHAPTER 7 page 65; 68-69

1. Anna realizes that her mom always takes Taylor and Amanda's side when there's a conflict and always has.
2. She thinks maybe it's because her mom has more in common with them than she does with her; designer clothes, the power of a make over and cheerleading...
3. Anna had tried out for cheerleading to make Marcheline happy -- but she'd stunk like blue cheese.
4. Marcheline tells her that maybe the problem with her friends is her-- that Taylor and Amanda are cheerleaders and have a certain image to maintain. Anna needs to get with it.
5. Anna notes that Marcheline always misses the boat with her and it's like M is schizophrenic with her. Nice one moment and shredding her ego to bits in the next.

CHAPTER 10 page 92 - 93

1. Anna notes that Sara, Jessica and Dani had been wanting in to Club Taylor since school started -- a club Anna hadn't been aware existed.
2. Although Anna hated their sucking up, she accepted their cookies and study notes and had gone along with it to some degree. Anna didn't like that about herself. Anna feels she's stronger and better than that.

3. Now Taylor and Amanda were the mean girls with their own wannabe fans.

2. Anna is furious with Marcheline which sparks her to lie.

1. When Amanda invites her to get ready for "the party" with her and Taylor, Anna calls her on it.

2. Amanda lets her cheery mask slip and tells Anna that she's not like Anna; that she can't be on the outside looking in. She admires Anna's strength but tells Anna that it would be better if Anna stood with them rather than against them. That Taylor rules the school and wouldn't it be better to look back on high school and know that you had it all?
